Design Collaboration is Broken

File-Based Chaos

"Which version are we on? Did you make the edits? Why is exporting taking so long?"

Siloed Workflows

Desktop-only tools force designers to work in isolation, then email files back and forth

Wasted Time

More time spent on "work about work" than actual design creation

"Adobe doesn't understand collaboration. Creative Cloud is really cloud in name only."

Real-Time Design in the Browser

Real-Time Collaboration

Multiple designers work simultaneously with live cursors and instant updates

Cloud-Native

No downloads, no file management. Everything lives in the browser with automatic saving

Version Control

Complete project history with ability to rewind and branch designs

The Google Docs of Design

Bringing collaborative editing to interface design for the first time

Massive Market Opportunity

Design is shifting from afterthought to core product strategy

$12B+

Design Tools Market

Adobe dominates with Creative Cloud, but collaboration tools are fragmented and outdated

Design-Led Growth

Companies like Airbnb and Uber prove design drives business value, not just aesthetics

Perfect Timing

Remote work and distributed teams create urgent need for collaborative design tools
